At Earlham, you’ll chart your own four-year journey through the liberal arts, integrating your academic major with transformative learning experiences like research, off-campus study, internships and leadership development. The results of this approach have made Earlham a national leader in student achievement, with recent students earning Fulbright, Watson, Rhodes and National Science Foundation scholarships. Earlham is also one of the leading liberal arts colleges in the U.S. for percentage of graduates who go on to earn doctoral degrees, thanks to the personal support and mentoring our students receive.

HOME IS WHERE THE heart is.

Richmond, Indiana, the College’s hometown, is a city of 36,000 that’s just a short drive from several major metropolitan areas—including Indianapolis, Dayton, Cincinnati and Chicago.

Richmond has plenty of opportunities for you to engage in community life—whether you’re looking for outdoor pursuits, a vibrant arts scene, great food or ways to volunteer for good in your new hometown.

And the Earlham campus includes 600 acres of woods, streams, ponds, old fields and prairie for you to explore—so bring your hiking shoes!
If there’s one thing Earlhamites excel at, it’s building community wherever they are. And with the array of opportunities our students have to engage outside the classroom, they do just that—both on campus and around the world.

At Earlham, we recognize that your education is an investment—and we’re committed to delivering a quality liberal arts education at an affordable price. It’s why we have consistently been ranked a “Best Value” college by the Princeton Review.

More than 95 percent of Earlham students receive some form of financial aid.

Our healthy endowment and strong network of alumni and friends who believe in the value of an Earlham education make it possible for us to award significant aid to our students.

Earlham offers merit, talent-based and special interest scholarships. These go to high academic achievers, students interested in art, chemistry, community service and engagement, diversity leadership, music, theatre arts and Quakers—the list goes on!
