About Earlham

Earlham today includes Earlham College, an undergraduate liberal arts college, the Earlham College Graduate Programs in Education, and the Earlham School of Religion.

Earlham's programs are informed by the distinctive perspectives and values of the Religious Society of Friends (Quakers). We challenge ourselves to seek truth, wherever truth may lead, so that we may grow in both intellect and spirit as we prepare to lead and to serve in today's world.

Earlham's faculty work to awaken the "teacher within," encouraging students to become lifelong learners. Earlham students actively shape and influence their own education, both inside and outside the classroom. Together, we are an intentional community that seeks to make a difference in the world for good. We challenge one another to grow in our capabilities and commitment, and we seek to lead lives that demonstrate our guiding values.

The Graduate Programs in Education continue the Earlham tradition of excellence by preparing teachers who are student-centered. Education students are encouraged to enhance their unique pedagogical voices and draw on teaching strategies that encourage and excite learning in all students.

An Earlham School of Religion education is likewise shaped by Quaker principles and practices. A Christian graduate theological school in the Quaker tradition, ESR prepares students for leadership that empowers and ministry that serves. Using a transformative model of education, ESR encourages students to explore the intellectual, spiritual and practical dimensions of their calls to ministry.

The Academic Procession

A colorful aspect of the Commencement ceremony is the academic procession. Strong traditions govern the use of the caps, gowns and hoods worn by many members of the academic community in the formal ceremony today. The academic apparel worn at Earlham's Commencement dates back to the Middle Ages. Then, voluminous gowns were worn to ward off the damp and cold of medieval buildings, with mortar boards used as hats. When those styles were abandoned by laymen, clergy and scholars continued to wear the robes, with variations in style and color identifying different monastic orders.

From the three items of academic attire — the cap, gown and hood — it is possible to distinguish the institution from which the wearer was graduated, the field of learning in which the degree was earned, and the level of degree — bachelor, master or doctorate. The institution granting the degree is indicated by the colors of the lining of the hood. The degree is indicated by the width of the velvet trimming, becoming wider from bachelor's to master's to doctorate. The color of the velvet trimming indicates the discipline or field of study.

The academic disciplines of Earlham faculty, trustees and distinguished guests are represented by the following colors:

CONFERRING

Earlham College

Earlham is a nationally recognized liberal arts institution whose mission, centered on Quaker principles, is “to be a learning community that seeks to envision and achieve a more perfect human society.” Earlham’s long devotion to academic excellence has been matched by its concern for spiritual values and high social purpose. Noticeable on campus is a spirit of concern, a sense of responsibility for world issues and freedom of thought.

Earlham students earn the Bachelor of Arts Degree. Major studies encompass 41 departmental and interdisciplinary fields. Innovation in educational programs and cross-cultural education are hallmarks of Earlham College. A leader in international education, Earlham currently offers off-campus programs in several countries around the world and within the United States. Students are intellectually challenged by faculty that are both excited about teaching and committed to the development of genuine enthusiasm for liberal learning, which is why Earlham consistently ranks in the top 20 colleges for “Best Classroom Experience” according to the Princeton Review. Earlham programs have received national recognition for their ability to prepare students for excellence in leadership for an increasingly complex, global society.

Earlham Graduate Programs in Education

“It is worth acknowledging, in all humility, that, though there are many great, beautiful, noble callings for human beings — ministry, healing, protecting the powerless through the law, making art, music and literature, the most wonderful things that human beings are privileged to do — none of them is more valuable to the human race, to the future of the planet, or to our own souls, than the work of teaching.”

— Professor Emeritus of English Paul Lacey

Earlham is proud to contribute to this valuable work through the Graduate Programs in Education. These programs are unique, as they focus on the discovery and renewal of the teacher within. Both the Master of Arts in Teaching and the Master of Education degrees are designed to be transformational for individuals who wish, in turn, to transform the lives of others. Both programs are grounded in Quaker principles including a respect for persons, integrity, simplicity, community, peace and justice. These values are manifested throughout both the Master of Arts in Teaching and the Master of Education programs.

Earlham School of Religion

Earlham School of Religion is a seminary of the Religious Society of Friends. Here, Friends and those from other traditions undertake formal theological study and ministry preparation. The School of Religion operates with its own dean and faculty and offers the Master of Arts and Master of Divinity degrees and several certificates. ESR manages the Lilly grant which supports the Quaker Leadership Center, offering non-degree learning and Quaker leadership development.

The presence of ESR in close association with Earlham College brings it in touch with many currents of contemporary intellectual life. As Earlham College is known nationally for its high academic standards, these same standards characterize ESR. Further enriching the ESR learning experience, a partnership with Bethany Theological Seminary began in 1994.

ESR assists students in developing a faith consistent with personal Christian revelation and religious experience. Students achieve competence in the biblical, historical and theological disciplines while developing practical skills and an empowering style of ministry. ESR students and faculty participate in the larger Christian community and its concern for the peoples of the world.

As a graduate center serving all Quakers, ESR develops Friends leadership for both programmed and unprogrammed meetings. The school provides a research and study center for Friends and encourages Friends' involvement in theological and cultural dialogue. While fostering unity in the Religious Society of Friends, ESR continues to clarify and sustain the Quaker vision.

A note on regalia

The practice of wearing academic regalia originated in the 12th and 13th centuries, when universities were taking form. Scholars, whether student or teacher, customarily wore the dress of a cleric. With few exceptions, these medieval scholars had taken orders, made certain vows, and perhaps been tonsured. Long gowns were worn, and hoods served to cover the tonsured head.

The American tradition of hooding extends approximately 100 years. The Earlham tradition began approximately 70 years ago, while the School of Religion's practice is about 40 years old. These hoods connect us with an honored tradition associated with intellectual and spiritual freedom.

The master's hood which we award today is three-and-one-half feet long. It is black in color, with two white stripes which distinguish it from a bachelor's or doctorate hood. The hood is trimmed with a scarlet border, signifying the theology degree. It is lined with fabric representing the institutional colors — in our case, maroon and white.

SPECIAL MESSAGES
to the Class of 2024

Message from the President

Dear Class of 2024,

Since 1847, generations of Earlham students have experienced a blend of classroom learning and experiential education that has transformed their lives — and the world — for good.

However, few students have shown the remarkable resilience that you have. In your senior year of high school, the whole world changed over the course of one week in March. At a time when you should have been celebrating your achievements and looking forward to a bright future, that future was plunged into uncertainty.

I imagine your first year in college was wildly different from how you imagined it — that year certainly was for me. But even in the midst of a pandemic, one thing remained unchangeable: the uncommon commitment to community that Earlhamites share.

Even masks, Zoom meetings and distance — whether 6 feet or 600 miles — couldn't change that. You found new ways of learning and building meaningful friendships. You spoke out against injustice. You stood up for the most vulnerable members of our community — on campus and off.

In true Earlhamite fashion, you worked through this uncertainty with grace, creativity and resolve. And when life returned to normal — whatever that means anymore — you and your classmates emerged stronger, wiser and more committed to making a difference.

As you graduate today, I hope you will reflect on your time at Earlham and the tremendous resilience you have demonstrated to get here. Over the last four years, you have not only earned a degree, you have also learned how to adapt and thrive.

In doing so, I have no doubt that you will go on to make the world a better, more just and more interesting place.

Congratulations and best wishes to you on this momentous day!

Anne Houtman, D.Phil.

President, Earlham College and Earlham School of Religion

Message from the Board

On behalf of the Earlham Board of Trustees, I am privileged and proud to congratulate the Class of 2024 graduates of Earlham College, the Earlham School of Religion and Earlham's Graduate Programs in Education. I also congratulate and thank the family, friends and faculty and staff who have supported our graduates on the way to this day.

Earlham students are smart, passionate, thoughtful, fun and full of promise, as I have learned over my four decades of volunteering for the College. You work hard, love well, play exuberantly, and care deeply about making the world a better place. You have strengthened your knowledge and understanding of the world around us, and engaged your passions whether they are intellectual, athletic, social, and/or political. While it has not always been comfortable or easy, you have grown in this hotbed of thought, reflection, discussion, argument and action we call Earlham.

Let me predict who you will be in the future, whether that is 10, 25, or 40 years from now. My confidence in seeing your future is based on the special nature of Earlham and knowing and hearing the life stories of scores of fellow alumni who have preceded you. You will live lives that make a difference to your families, your communities, and our world. You will have the ability and will to see the world differently and thereby be a part of creating solutions to problems that seem intractable. You will be good shepherds for society, the environment, and the world in which we live. You will be innovators and agents for positive change. You will be peacemakers and agreement finders.

As a trustee, I am constantly aware that Earlham is trying to prepare students to live in a world we can hardly imagine. Let us know where and how it should evolve toward the future. Please return to the warmth of the Earlham community frequently and contribute to our rich heritage. The College, School of Religion and the Graduate Programs in Education need your ongoing care and support to continue for future generations the educational excellence you have enjoyed.

Please accept our good hopes and well wishes. Congratulations!

Thomas H. Thornburg, Class of 1984
Chair, Board of Trustees

Message from the Alumni Council

Greetings Class of 2024!

So here it is, the moment you've all been waiting for! Commencement. And with that comes a warm welcome to the ranks of the Alumni Association — more than 20,000 alumni who are living in every state in the nation and six continents (maybe all seven, knowing how Earlhamites are).

I've never met a boring Earlham student or alumnus. Every single one has a rich story to tell, has been to interesting places and has done things that are astounding. Whether they are a biodiversity cataloger in the Amazon, true crime author in the Midwest, teacher in Japan, geological surveyor in Alaska, fire investigator in New York City, journalist in Hollywood, healthcare provider in Africa, mathematician for NASA or a potter in a commune in New Mexico, they work for good in the world.

I encourage you to make a connection with them. Ask for their story and share yours because you never know where that might lead — Earlhamite comradery and even collaboration certainly don't stop once you've graduated. Use the resources Earlham and its alumni have to offer and be that resource when you have those insights and gifts to share.

Earlhamites do amazing things in small and large ways. Do your amazing thing. Gather those sticks and light a fire and leave it burning, because when you leave the light for someone else, they have a chance to do amazing things, too.

Welcome to the Earlham Alumni Association, Class of 2024.

FACULTY RETIREMENT

KEVIN THOMAS MILES

Kevin Thomas Miles began teaching at Earlham College in 2004 after more than 10 years of university teaching in Pennsylvania and one year as a visiting professor at Haverford College. One of his many highlights at Earlham was collaboration with colleagues from other departments. He also enjoyed working with Earlham's Fulbright liaison and participating in the August Wilderness Program. In retirement, he is looking forward to continuing his scholarly preoccupations with ancient Greek philosophy, most notably, engagements with Heraclitus appearing in Plato and Nietzsche. Those who know him have good reason to suspect that some of his time in retirement will involve at least a little bit of bicycle riding both stateside and abroad.

RAJARAM KRISHNAN

Rajaram Krishnan is ready to move on to new adventures after 25 years as a faculty member for the Department of Economics at Earlham College. During his time with the College, he led off-campus programs (semester and summer programs) in four different continents, including Kenya, India/Sri Lanka, London, Japan, Singapore, China and Utah. He was also part of a number of student-faculty collaborative research projects. His administrative roles included serving as the Associate Vice President for Institutional Effectiveness. As he looks ahead, he cherishes his joyful memories of interactions with students, many of whom he is still in contact with.

CONGRATULATIONS!
